NC participated in a call with the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, Governor Ricketts' office, and other state commodity organizations, to share concerns regarding how COVID-19 is impacting agriculture. During the call, NC officially requested the following:

- Guidance from the Nebraska Department of Transportation regarding whether the federal waiver on hours-of-service regulations also applies to livestock haulers on state highways/county roads.
 - Yes, livestock haulers are exempt from hours-of-service regulations on county, state and federal roads through April 12, 2020. Drivers wishing to haul under this exemption are suggested to print out and keep in their cab a copy of the Expanded Emergency Declaration, available here.
- Official request to deem packing brand inspectors, packing plant workers, feedyard workers, and any other agricultural employee as essential critical infrastructure employees under any state emergency order.
- Guidance from the state on whether livestock production sales must strictly adhere to the CDC guidance on public gatherings of no more than 10 people, raising concerns on how such limit will financially impact producers
 - Make every effort possible to adhere to the CDC and White House guidelines, including moving sales online, social distancing, and practicing good hygiene. However, the state will NOT by shutting down private businesses, including seedstock sales and markets.
- Heightened attention and help dealing with bandwidth issues in rural areas, particularly as schools are moving to online courses and employees are teleworking.
- The creation of a livestock employee identification card to help identify employees that are deemed essential.

NC Staff participated in two conference calls on Thursday with staff from multiple other state affiliate organizations and NCBA to discuss the best path forward to secure funds for an "beef stimulus" payment direct to cattlemen. While multiple options and ideas are being discussed, the best path forward has not yet been identified. We will continue to participate in conversations with fellow state affiliates and congressional leaders to identify a beef stimulus program that will provide the most benefit to our members on a short timeline. NCBA staff is meeting hourly with congressional staff and agency leaders to aid in these efforts.
